Wednesday, June 19, 1872. Our Position. It is well for communities, as for individuals, to periodically take stock, reckon themselves up, and see how mat-ters stand. We had this kind of operaation performed for us by Mr. Abington, at the Immigration meeting of Friday evening; and it must be confessed the representation given by this gentlemen of our appearance since last he saw our city, some eight years since, was anything but a matter for congratulation. "In-stend of indications of progress," he observed, "I notice positive evidences of retrogression." As a panacea for present evils, and as a means for improvement, Mr. Abington, who has of late been actively engaged as Immigration agent for one of the railway companies of the United States, recommended "Immigration." That Immigration may be a very excellent thing for those new States of America just opened up by railway communication, we have no doubt; but it by no means follows that Immigration to this country at the present time is desirable. It sounds all very well, as put forth in one of the resolutions, to talk of the great mineral, timber, agricultural and feshery wealth of Vancouver Island, and of the Mainland, but should the capitalists invited make their appearance to-morrow, it would be a puzzle to point to-merrow, it would be a prezie to point out desirable modes for their operation. That information with reference to the great enterprises on the eve of execution by the Dominion Government, and the new future opening out before us be brought prominently under public notice, and information with reference to the same widely circulated, we heartily ap-prove of; but until these enterprises have been commenced, and certain local im-provements effected, we regard Immigration to our shores as premature and undesirable. The fact is, we must get our house in order before we issue invita-tions for additional population. There is certain preliminary work to be done, so that the way be cleared. We want ros made, and communication opened up from New Westminster to the upper country, so that instead of being supplied with beef and mutton from the American side, there may be facilities afforded for the introduction of some of the cattle said to be rolling in fat, in the rich pasturage of the upper country valleys. We want roads opened up for communication with the farming districts of Comex and Cowichan, and a market established in our city, so that newly arrived settlers, as well as present farmers, may have easy access to Victoria, and best means afforded for the sale of their produce. We want gentle pressure to be brought to bear, in increased taxation on those Victoria, June 15, 1872. valuable broad acres now locked up by speculators, so that their valuable resources may be availed of. That ere long we shall be in a position to receive advantageously a large addition to our population, and that there will be profitable operation for the same, we are fully satisfied; but we are of opinion that any immediate increase either of capitalists or laborers to present numbers would entail GREAT The Prince Alfred and Officers. EDITOR STANDARD:—We, the undersigned, passengers by the Prince Alfred from San Franc sco on the 22d ult., have read with surprise in your issue of Monday last, the aspersions cast upon the officers and crew of that vessel during her last trip by a passenger under the signature of "Scrutator." We are under the signature of "Scrutator." We are pleased that one passenger only should be found to make wholesale charges such as "miserable and indecent treatment to the passengers." We think the public will not attach much importance to the statements thus anonymously made, and we doubt his kindly expressed feelings for the second mate, who is exempted from their obloquy. We, however, take this opportunity of giving our unqualified approval of the management of the vessel by Captain Williams and his officers, and can bear testimeny of the unverying courtesy and kindness extended by them to us during our passage here.

The Daily Standard.

The previsions and accommodations were all that could be desired, notwithstanding her having a larger number of passengers on board than on her last trip. In conclusion we wish every success to Captain Williams and the officers of the Prince Alfred, and hope we may never have worse treatment hope we may never have worse treatmen than that experienced by us.

EDITOR STANDARD:—Last year the order of the Mayor was not attended to until all thistles were in seed, and consequently the money paid for cutting them down was thrown away. This year there will be the same neglect as the thistles are fast approaching maturity. Is this matter not sufficiently understood by the Municipal Council? The thistles are greatly on the increase and should the same thing near again this year, they will make themselves felt, and the nuisance will become gigantic. Why not go un for extiruation as gantic. Why not go in for extirpation at ice, and not daily with the nuisance until it icomes unbearable?

A RATEPATER AND SUFFERER.

CHARLES LEVER .- Another of the great English novelists as we announced a few days ago, is dead. Charles Lever, after a long busy and successful literary life, has passed away. A very wide circle of readers will endden at the news. All who have read "Charles O'Malley"—and who has not read of and been delighted with the bold dragoon—will feel that in the realm of fiction a void will long exist, now that Lever is gone. The list of delightful books that he gave us is a long one, and not one on the list but is full of genuine wit and pathos. Mr. Lever's health has been declining for some time, and the pages of "Lore Kilgobdin," the last sheets of which have but recilining vigor of the author, being sadly wanting in the rollicking humor that filled his serier books. There is not one to take Charles Lever's place if the peculiar line of fiction that he has marked out; and the brilling and faceicating pages of "Charles O'Malley" and "Herry Lorrequer" will stand unrivalled for light and graceful story-telling. busy and successful literary life, has passed

OTTAWA, 25th May, 1872.

The Victorians are expected up on the North Pasific, to leave Victoria on Tuesday, the 2d of July. On the following day the game will be played, commencing probably at eleven o'clock and lasting about four hours. From what we hear we should judge the two Clubs much mere equally matched than were those of three years ago, on the occasion of the last match game. The Victorians are practising, becoming daily more formidable, and if the Olympians do not suffer a second defeat, they will have to play a remarkably good game.—

Entror STANDARD:—The debate on the Treaty measure has been the greatest blow siruck at the Grit faction since its chief's coalition with Sir John A. Macdonald. The divisions on Thursday night were a glorious victory for the Dominion Government and the friends of British connection. All who care that Canada should remain under the agis of the empire will rejoice at this great triumph, for by it we have shown England that we are in fact not in mere name, of the Empire, Imperial; British, not in thin sentiment, but in stern reality. To the Government of the Government of the Government of the Government of the Empire, Imperial; British, not in thin sentiment, but in stern reality. To the Government of the Government of the Government of the Government of the Empire, Imperial; British, not in thin sentiment, but in stern reality. To the Government of the Government of the Government of the members of the Empire, Imperial; British, not in thin sentiment, but in stern reality. To the Government of the Government of the members of the cariboo members of the members of science oppose them. Every Province stoe nobly by the Government; British Columbia Canada spoke as they never were called upon to speak before for the continuance of British onnection, the maintenance of our honor the advancement of our fishery interests, and

tives gallantly struggled for and won. After the slowly dragged out length of the solemn Treaty debate, the bolsterous merriment of the House over THE INSOLVENCY BILL was the natural order of things. As the result of each division was announced, the winning side gave vent to triumphant cheers,

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY STANDARD

Legislation did heavier responsibilities fall on the Ministry, and never before was a heavier load shouldered with more consummate skill, or carried more straightforwardly. During the ten months in which the Premier maintained a rigid and impenetrable stlence, diplomacy was working out Canada's future While the opponents of the Government here if tore passion to tatters over the Washing ton Treaty, master minds in England and Canaua were thinking out a great work. When the Premier's hand, so long kept in reserve was exposed, the Grits read in it, disastrous defeat, and the peopie saw in in the beginning of a new epoch in their career. The British Government offered us the boon, never before granted to a colony, of deciding for or against an Imperial question in which we were interested. Our statesmen accepted the boon by taking on themselvas the responsibility inherent to the Colonal tie; and by supporting them the country declared as emphatically as by the mouth of an embassy, that Canada was anxious to preserve British connection, and willing, as part of the Empire, to take her share of Imperial cares. We test nnection, and willing, as part of the Empire, to take her share of Imperial carea. We tes-tified our devotion when it was most needed, mad- friends by a species of reciprocity with the United States when bickering was becoming dangerous, and created the opportunity of starting out under the agis of the Empirewith the Empire's approval, with our neighbors' good will and with the consciousness that we had acted as became true colonists and upright people.

THE PIPTY-PIVE GENTLEMEN who opposed the Government on the Treat measure assumed a responsibility of which they are now itching to get rid. They calculated on defeat, but they never receased on the utter extermination that befold them. From Ottawa to Sarnia they are now bewed in grief. The silence maintained by the President of the silence maintained by the CIRCINATI, June 17—Rev. J. J. Thompson, formerly pastor of the Methodist chapel here, now of Leavenworth, was fearfully backed with a hatchet by a young man named Banon, whose sweetheart Thompson is said to have kissed on leaving her father's house, where he had been visiting. Thompson lies in a critical condition. Treaty secret has fallen on his traducers. Annexationists, Independence Advocates, Annexationists, Independence Advocates, Annexationists, Independence Advocates, Autis and Grits, go begging for a word of comfort. They whistle of future victory to show there is yet life among them, but the tune grows fainter as every division list is taken, and the chances are that by the end of the session they will not have wind enough left to pipe even a requiem.

was observed throughout the length and was observed throughout the length and breadth of the country with more than usual honor, the people opening their joy at the mitigation of the anxiety Her Majesty underwent when the life of her first-born was trembling in the balance. Never before was such a display made, and never were the people so enthusiastic in the observance of a national holiday.

It is probable that three weeks hence the session will be brought to a close, and that
